

GlaxoSmithKline (GSK or we) value your privacy and care about the way in which your personal information is treated.

What personal information do we collect about you?

The personal information that we process includes:

- Your basic information – such as name, surname;
- Contact information – such as, email address, phone number;
- Professional details – such as your occupation/position/role, workplace;
- Dietary requests

How do we obtain your personal information?

We collect your personal information when you provide it to us with this form.

How do we use your personal information?

We use your personal information for the following purposes:

Registration to GSK events for healthcare professionals, for follow up interaction with GSK representatives and sending feedback questionnaires after the conference.

On what basis do we use your personal information?

We use your personal information on the following basis:

- For legitimate business purposes. Using your personal information via this registration tool helps us to organise the NAAKA 16 november, 2021, including collecting registrations, understanding your requirements and providing relevant information to you.

How long will we keep your personal information?

We will delete your personal information related to the conference organization after the feedback questionnaires have been sent. If you are in an ongoing customer relationship with GSK, other than attending the meeting, GSK will continue to handle your personal information for that purpose.

With whom do we share your personal information?

We share certain of your personal information with:

- members of the GSK group of companies; and
- the following trusted third parties: Evolve AB and Memlin

See the "Protecting your personal information" section for information on how we keep your personal information secure when sharing it with others.

Transfers of your personal information outside of your home country

Your personal information may be processed by GSK, its affiliated companies and GSK's trusted third party suppliers anywhere in the world, including in countries where data privacy laws may not be equivalent to, or as protective as, the laws in your home country

These countries include: Sweden

Protecting your personal information

We use a variety of security measures and technologies to help protect your personal information from unauthorised access, use, disclosure, alteration or destruction consistent with applicable data protection and privacy laws.

For example, when we share your personal information with external suppliers, we may put in place a written agreement which commits the suppliers to keep your information confidential, and to put in place appropriate security measures to keep your information secure.

Your rights

You may be entitled to:

- ask GSK about the processing of your personal information, including to be provided with a copy of your personal information;
 - request the correction and/or deletion of your personal information;
 - request the restriction of the processing of your personal information, or object to that processing;
 - request receipt or transmission to another organisation, in a machine-readable form, of the personal information that you have provided to GSK; and
 - complain to your local supervisory authority if your privacy rights are violated, or if you have suffered as a result of unlawful processing of your personal information.
 - Where you are given the option to share your personal information with us, you can always choose not to do so.

If you object to the processing of your personal information, or if you have provided your consent to processing and you later choose to withdraw it, we will respect that choice in accordance with our legal obligations.

This could mean that we are unable to perform the actions necessary to achieve the purposes of processing described (see 'How do we use your personal information?') or that you are unable to make use of the services and products offered by us.

If you would like to exercise your rights, please let us know by getting in touch via Contact details.
